TRADITIONAL KENT PEG TILES

Sourcing original peg tiles can be a task in itself. Not only are they expensive but can quickly deteriorate once stripped off and re-fitted. With over 25 years experience of peg tile making, Spicer peg tiles and fittings are handmade to the highest quality, using traditional techniques to create the "original" Kent peg look.

Produced by Kent Clay Tiles Ltd, each Spicer tile is uniquely crafted with subtle variations of size, colour and texture that have been adorning the roofs of buildings in South East England since the Middle Ages. Modern firing technology ensures the tiles achieve the highest standards in strength and durability.

Spicer tiles are ideal for new build properties as well as blending in with original peg tiles for renovation on older buildings. In addition to peg, eave and gable tiles, ornamental tiles and tapered oast tiles are also produced to create a roof that is a "little bit special".

Available in two textures - Antique and Smooth, with a variety of colour options, Spicer peg tiles provide a perfect, cost-effective solution, satisfying architects, planners and roofers alike.

STAGES OF OUR PEG TILE MAKING

- 1 A light dusting of sand is sprinkled into the peg mould
- 2 The raw clay is covered by sand and placed into the mould
- 3 The clay is then moulded by hand with the excess clay struck off
- 4 Peg holes are produced using a wooden peg
- 5 The peg tiles are then left to dry ready for firing
- 6 After drying, the peg tiles are placed onto the kiln cars by hand
- 7 In the kiln, they are fired to over 1000 degrees for strength and durability
- 8 All peg tiles are checked and sorted into crates ready for dispatch

SPICER

Handmade Peg Tiles Est 1989

We combine traditional handmade tile making with advanced firing techniques in order to produce 'olde world' looking peg tiles compatible with the tiles of yesteryear.

WHY CHOOSE SPICER PEG TILES?

- ✓ Time-weathered - their rustic, weather-worn and 'instant-aged' appearance is often recommended by conservationists looking for modern like-for-like replacement peg tiles.
- ✓ Mellow tones - their subtle muted colours blend naturally with older buildings, complementing the English architectural landscape.
- ✓ Bespoke sizes - they can be produced in bespoke and non-standard sizes that suit the regional variations in peg tile sizes found on our historic buildings.
- ✓ Complementary accessories - a variety of matching ornamental tiles and accessories are available, including specialist bat access tiles.
- ✓ Modern quality standards - all Spicer peg tiles exceed the latest BS EN 1304 Standards and are CE marked.
- ✓ Guaranteed to last - our tiles come with our own 30 year performance guarantee (terms available on request).
